Since 2016, Chicago-based Better Yet Podcast has been conducting longform interviews with some of independent music's finest talents. Now they have partnered with some of their favorite guests to create a tribute to one of Chicago's greatest rock records.

all of god's money is a compilation in tribute to Wilco's modern classic Yankee Hotel Foxtrot featuring covers from past guests of the podcast including Adult Mom, Ratboys, and Bethlehem Steel. The compilation will be released via Bandcamp on July 10 for $5/more download, with 100% of the proceeds going to AIDS Foundation of Chicago.

The compilation has been part of a journey stretching back almost two years, according to its curator, Tim Crisp, host of Better Yet:

I've met some unbelievable people over the course of doing interviews on Better Yet. I wanted to find a way to collect some of these folks again in a different way, and the idea of a compilation quickly became a tribute to Yankee Hotel Foxtrot, a record ingrained in the city of Chicago. It was a great thrill to see these songs reinterpreted by some of the best. Ultimately, this was all an excuse to help out the AIDS Foundation of Chicago, an organization devoted to servicing those in our city living with HIV/AIDS.

AIDS Foundation of Chicago is a non-profit organization whose mission is to “mobilize communities to create equity and justice for people living with and vulnerable to HIV or chronic conditions.” In May of 2019, AFC unveiled its “Getting To Zero” Plan with the goal of eliminating all new transmissions of HIV by the year 2030.

In addition to the album’s original eleven tracks, all of god’s money also contains two bonus covers of demos recorded during the Yankee Hotel Foxtrot sessions (“Laminated Cat”—released by Jeff Tweedy and Glenn Kotche side project Loose Fur—and Wilco B-Side “Magazine Called Sunset”).
